Memorandum

To: Mayor and City Council
From: Amber Withycombe, City Manager
Date: November 5, 2024
Re: Board & Commission Vacancy Appointments

We currently have the following vacancies requiring mid-year appointments to our boards and commissions:

- Human Services Commission: three seats
- Sustainability Commission: one seat

The Sustainability Commission position must be filled by an individual who works for or owns a business in Maplewood.

Enclosed are new applications received since these vacancies were publicly advertised, as well as previous applications that have been reactivated with permission from the submitters.

Candidates recommended for appointment will be placed on the December 10 Council agenda.

Key Qualifications

- More than 15 years of experience as an educator and designer.
- Maintain open lines of communication between learners, instructors, and faculty
- Communicating with learners and prospective learners from a variety of backgrounds.
- Assist others in taking on leadership roles within the classroom
- Proficient in Mandarin Chinese
- Ability to foster a dialogue that encourages learners to develop critical thinking

Instructional Design Work

I have designed and developed more than 100 courses for Lindenwood University, including being lead designer for their new EdD Leadership program. I have implemented a revised development schedule for Lindenwood Online, conducted professional development seminars for other instructional designers, helped build the Master in Instructional Design program proposal, and served on numerous committees as an instructional design consultant. I am currently Director of an instructional design team that focuses on non-traditional learners and building programs for non-standard terms.

I have designed and developed content for Midwest BankCentre and worked as a designer-by-assignment while employed with the American Public University System, where I designed, sequenced, and created content for multiple online courses, including composition, literature, linguistics, and math courses. My dissertation focused on working with novice designers as they sought to implement a principles-based approach to instructional design.

Experienced Educator

Having taught students both in the United States and while living abroad in China, I am comfortable working with learners from diverse backgrounds and am aware of many of the difficulties faced by students working through a second language and coming from a different country. Having already worked a number of years directly with learners within the classroom environment, I have a good working knowledge of learner motivations.

I have also created and taught courses focusing on the needs of minority groups, cultural concerns of the marginalized, and on learning to recognize diverse voices in one's community.

Experienced Trainer

In addition to online education experience and my Community of Inquiry certification, I have extensive experience in training and coaching. These experiences include corporate training activities for multinational companies, youth mentorship in urban areas, and participation in peer training exercises with both online traditional face-to-face education systems.
